That was a really strong quake…
Looks like all the trains are down…
Home is 20 kilometers away, so I guess I'll have to stay at the office…
Oh, right! I kept emergency supplies in my locker just in case.

That night...
It's dark and unsettling, but at least I have a light.
Eating something sweet made me feel a little better.
For the first three days, while rescue efforts take priority, I'll stay here rather than try to make my way home.
The next day

Three days after the earthquake
The trains still aren't running...

All right, I'll use the "Disaster Support Station for People Returning Home"* as landmarks and walk home!
うわ… Oh no...
I suddenly need to use the restroom...
Sorry

Oh, there's a convenience store over there.
良かった～
Thank goodness!
I'm sorry, but the water has been shut off because of the earthquake, so the restroom cannot be used...
Oh, that's all right!
P.28
I have a portable toilet, so please let me use this!
ふぅ
Haaah…
That portable toilet saved me! Now I can continue home with peace of mind!
You never know when or where a disaster will occur.
Why not tuck some "peace of mind" away in your bag or locker for emergencies?
