That's reassuring. Then I'll help make the water-filled barrier bags!
The 45-liter garbage bags we have at home will work, right?
ザーーーッ SWOOOOOSH
There's an alert!
Grandma! It's dangerous to go outside now, so let's move upstairs to the second floor before the first floor floods!
Beep! ピコン!
Level 4 Urgent Warning (Heavy Rain)
Yes, you're right! Let's go upstairs!
The next morning
...Look! It's muddy outside, but no water got in!
ぐろ…… Squelch…
Thank goodness! The sandbags and water-filled barriers we prepared in advance protected the house!
Because we prepared before the typhoon arrived, we didn't have to panic.
Having you here with me was so reassuring, Haruki. Thank you.
Yes! I'm so glad we prepared properly, Grandma!
